Editorial Column

A little late for Grimm and Andersen

San Francisco's venerable weekly, the Argonaut, has an editorial that should interest Carmel, which was among the first to take up the nationwide campaign against undesirable "funny books," and to succeed, thanks to the wholehearted co-operation of the local newsstand proprietors.

"A former San Francisco artist, Dong Kingman, has been enlisted in an eastern community's war on comic books which deal with violence and sex themes," says the Argonaut. "New, 'animated' comic books, described as being a complete departure in their field, have been illustrated with Mr. Kingman's delightful watercolors and put on sale in Westchester bookstores by a parents' group which decided to raise the money and recruit the talent necessary to produce books which will entertain and instruct their children. Instead of dealing with new and improved techniques of murder, rape, robbery, torture and manhunt, they retell the incomparable tales of Hans Andersen and Grimm. Though illustrated as brightly and sold as cheaply as their corrosive predecessors, these books, in one of the booksellers' words, 'are as unlike them, as vichy is to vodka, Rumpelstiltskin to Rabelais.' They will soon be distributed nationally, it is hoped, wherever communities have banned the old, vicious crime-comic."

It's a lovely idea, and certainly worth a trial, but we wonder if youngsters whose taste in fiction has been formed by movies and radio programs (to our notion as culpable in their choice of dominant themes as the comic books) will be interested in anything so mild as the "incomparable tales of Hans Andersen and Grimm." Had the movies and the radio not already prostituted public taste, would the undesirable comic books have had a market in the first place?—Wilma Cook.

Carmel Unincorp. Registers Protest Against Re-Zoning

Carmel Unincorporated flocked to Salinas 35 strong Monday to protest rezoning of property at the mouth of the Carmel Valley. Headed by Dr. A. L. Van Meter of Carmel, the group presented a solid front of opposition to the move at a meeting of the Monterey County Planning Commission, called for the discussion of setback lines in connection with proposed highway changes just south of Carmel.

Rezoning in the area became a lively issue several months ago when Jack Morris and Phil Hatton applied for a permit to operate a golf driving range near the intersection of Highway No. 1 and the Valley road. Carmel Unincorporated withdrew their opposition. Later developments, including state plans for highway changes, aroused the residents again.

Road To Peace Could Lie By Way Of South American Food Says Dr. Robbins Botanist, Back From Latin America

BY JOHN UPTON

"Latin America will have the world by the tail if its food production potentialities are ever developed," prophesied Dr. Wilfred W. Robbins, professor of botany at University of California's College of Agriculture at Davis, back in his Carmel home last week end after seven months in Central America, Mexico, and South America.

In a program involving exchange of professors and of technical information sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in the interests of furthering world food production, Dr. Robbins visited almost every country south of the border. After lectures and conferences at universities, experimental stations, agricultural institutes, and commercial plants, he returned last week "greatly impressed" with what he had seen.

"Would you like me to explain where South America is?" Dr. Robbins asked brusquely. When he was assured that that would not be necessary, he grinned and said, "You may think that a fatuous question, but so many Americans are abysmally ignorant of the geography of the hemisphere. Not long ago, I was asked if you reached South America by way of Vancouver. What do they teach in geography classes these days?

"We in the United States should know more about the countries to the south of us for two reasons. First, because they may become the most important food producing areas in the entire world. Food means peace. If the people of a country have plenty to eat, they won't be interested in waging war. And of course any help we can give them, such as this trip of mine, makes for peace through better economic conditions.

"The second reason is that there are tremendous opportunities there for American-trained men," he continued. "The South and Central Americans are learning our efficient methods of agriculture, but it takes time. Many of the phases of mechanization and chemical control are new to them. They need our help, and the world needs their food.

"You don't have to speak Spanish to get along. 'Yo no hablo la hermosa lengua de Cervantes' is the extent of my proficiency, yet I had no trouble." His accent was execrable.

"I spoke before 150 advanced agricultural students at a University in Panama," he recalled. "Standing next to me on the platform was one of the professors, all primed to interpret my wisdom. In the opening paragraph, I tried one of my little jokes, wondering

French Art In Bad Way But Paris Unchanged, Reports Warshawsky, One Man Show Opens Here Jan. 15

"Contemporary French art is up a blind alley. The public won't buy it, and the painters are beginning to realize they can go no further under its commandments," Abel "Buck" Warshawsky, Pennsylvania-born veteran Continental artist, reported this week, after 20 months in France.

Starting January 15, a one man show of his work during the stay in France will be on exhibition at the Carmel Art Association Galleries.

With characteristic quick gestures, the stocky painter told of returning to Paris after an absence of eight years to find the face of the city unaltered but the art of the painting center of the world in a bad way.

"The day I arrived in Paris—the hottest recorded in 70 years—I was surprised to find the city looking better, if anything, than it did in 1939. There are more parks, new and charming suburbs, and everywhere the evidences of beautiful architectural planning."

"Even my apartment was just as I left it. Of course, there wasn't much of value in it. Some rather shabby furniture and a few turkies that I couldn't sell." He grinned.

After two days in Paris, Warshawsky spent two months in Pont Croix, Britanny, a village that had been under German occupation for four years.

"The Germans had damaged nothing in Pont Croix—with the possible exception of the French mentality. In fact, I think some of the German love for discipline and outdoor exercise had taken root. Everywhere you go the highways are crowded with bicyclists, and on weekends you see hundreds of young people with knapsacks heading for the country.

"Winter in Paris was pretty grim," Buck recalled. "It was a continual struggle to get enough coal to keep from freezing. Took a jaunt to Nice and Antibes, and ran into a snowstorm the first day. The newspapers never mention the fact, but it snows every once in a while on the Riviera. Not very good publicity, but it's true."

"The face of the Parisian artist colony has changed considerably," he said. "Montparnasse is dead. The most popular rendezvous are the Deux Magots and the Cafe Flore, the latter where Jean Paul Sartre and his disciples hang out. French art students of today are clean-shaven and conservatively dressed; if you see a young man with a beard, you know he is an American student, still living in the past of forty years ago."

Non-objective painting in France has backed itself into a corner, Warshawsky thinks.

"The work of artists who deal in the abstract has become repetitious, geometrical, and completely without emotion. And what is art without emotion? The painters who are concerned with 'inspiration' rather than with technique

Carmel Camera Club Sponsors Exhibition Of Hiller Prints

An exhibit of prints by Lejaren a Hiller, New York commercial photographer, will be sponsored by the Carmel Camera Club January 16-31 at the Carmel Art Gallery. Hiller is art director of the Underwood and Underwood Illustration Studios, a firm specializing in national advertising photography.

Hiller has been chosen by the Camera Club as one of the top illustrating photographers in the country, according to Edward P. McMurtry, president of the local group, and his show here will take the place of the club's annual member exhibit. He is also well known as a painter, a profession which he followed before taking up photography.

Hiller's show will coincide with the Abel Warshawsky exhibit, which will also be up at the gallery until the end of January. Warshawsky will show 70 paintings and sketches completed during his recent stay in France.

Survey Locates Housing

Months of work on a survey of the business district by a planning commission committee made up of Ernest Bixler, P. A. McCreery, Donald Craig and Building Inspector Floyd Adams reveals that there is not only plenty of available land in the business district on which to build apartment houses, but there is also a sufficient number of apartment houses already operating in the business zone to take care of Carmel's housing needs for tourists and seasonal visitors.

The survey was undertaken because, since the first day of its existence, the planning commission has been under pressure to extend the business district, to create a "twilight" zone around the edges of the business district for apartment and rooming houses, or to rewrite the zoning ordinances so that rooming houses and guest houses could operate on a larger scale in the residence district.

One of the arguments advanced by those who wanted to extend the scope of the guest house operations was that there are insufficient accommodations for tourists in the business zone and insufficient land in the business area on which to build enough apartment houses and rooming houses to take care of the need.

The survey shows that this is not the case, two members of the committee told The Pine Cone yesterday.

"But my mind is still open on the question," one committee member said. "Space for future building and number of existing accommodations are not the only

New Art Course, Driving Lessons, Atomic Forum Offered For Winter Semester At Carmel Adult School

With the opening of the second semester, the Carmel Adult School is offering several new courses as well as its many old favorites. Patricia Cunningham, an instructor of the Carmel Art Institute, will give a course in art appreciation. Many of her lectures will be illustrated and should be of interest to all. This class will hold its first meeting on Wednesday, January 12, at 7:30 p. m. in the Sunset library. Another feature that many will be interested in is driver education. The Carmel Unified School District has a dual control car to use in teaching this course and it is hoped that many people desiring to learn will enroll. Students will be given individual instruction behind the wheel and will then practice in their own cars when available.

An outstanding forum series has been arranged under the direction of Zenas Potter. The general topic will be What Atomic Energy Is and Means. All of the speakers have not at present been arranged for but the following lectures have been scheduled:

Jan. 22, Dr. Burton J. Meyer, What Is Atomic Energy; Jan. 29, Dr. Morris R. Jeppson, Does the Atomic Bomb Threaten Humanity?; Feb. 4, Why Atomic Control Has Failed; Feb. 11, David Bradley, No Place to Hide; Feb. 19, How We May Benefit by Atomic Energy.

The University of California is supplying the speakers. This should give us the best of lecturers as the University pioneered in the field of atomic energy.

If you wish to make a leather purse, a copper lamp, a plate, a table, or a picture join one of the many craft classes offered. Some of the classes fill quite rapidly and it is a very good plan to be on hand the first night.

The schedule of classes for the second semester beginning Monday, January 3, 1949, is printed on Page 8 in this issue of The Pine Cone. Additional copies of the schedule of classes may be obtained at the Adult School Office. Further information may be had by phoning the adult school office at Sunset School, phone 787, or the home of Charles L. Dawson, principal, phone 297-W.

SPORTS REVIEWS AND PREDICTIONS; LOCAL AND NATIONAL

The year 1948 saw sports booming all along the line, with baseball and football returning to prewar quality for the first time. Basketball, both amateur and professional, is making great strides throughout the country, and has become increasingly popular on the West Coast. Boxing is in the doldrums, largely because of poor management, lack of a suitable heavyweight challenger, and the astonishing number of ring fatalities during the past year. The squared circle industry needs a little overhauling. Million dollar days at the race tracks are no longer a novelty, but are expected at all the tracks. Better than the Big Red is what the turf bugs are saying about Citation, the top horse of the year. Golf saw the same old names at the top of the money winning brigade. Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Lloyd Mangrum, Jimmy Demaret, and Chick Harbert continue to dominate the stick wielders. Frank Stranahan, he of the bulging muscles, has drawn away from the rest of the amateurs and has been whipping the pros quite handily. Tennis received a shot in the arm when Pancho Gonzales was ranked as top amateur for the year. Pancho came up the hard way and has given a spark to lots of future tennis greats.

Top sports performance of the year: Bob Mathias, Tulare High School boy, who won the decathlon in the Olympic games. Best team performance: the Cleveland Indians uphill fight to win the American League pennant and the World's Series. Biggest upset: Santa Clara whipping Nevada, 14 to 0. Most surprising incidents: Rip Belvail's two hits in one softball game, and the tenure of Joe Nicholson's hitting streak. Saddest incident for Carmel sports fans: injury to our grand athlete, Russ Bohlke.

Predictions for 1949: California will surprise Northwestern in the Rose Bowl. Western football will catch up with the Mid-West variety. Stanford to whip California in the 1949 Big Game. Monterey Peninsula College to become a power in the junior college grid circuit. Jim Hare to be the finest passer in Northern California high school circles. Tommy Handley to develop into the CCAL'S finest fullback. Carmel High School to win a couple of basketball games. Bob Feller to get a big slice taken off his pay check. (Would that my salary be just the cut Bob is going to get.) Mike Balazs to finally beat Curley Wettengel in golf. University of Oklahoma will win the Sugar Bowl. Boston Red Sox to finish on top in the American League and the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National. That these predictions could possibly be wrong.

NEILL'S ALL-STARS AND CYO TOP VACATION CAGE PLAY

Clayton Neill's band of College All-Stars and Jim Muscutt's CYO boys had too much basketball savvy for the rest of the teams in the play-for-fun vacation cage league, and rolled over all opposition without tasting defeat. Neill's sharpshooters took the measure of the high school varsity, Ricketts Sports, and the junior college combination. Pouring through the points for the class of '46 were Martin Irwin, Bill Moore (borrowed from Kiski Prep), Art Templeman, Dick Larkey, Tommy Hefling, Bill Gargiulo, and Coach Neill. These lads whipped all opposition by 20 or more points and were angling for a bid to the Cow Palace tournament when the vacation period was over.

Jim Muscutt's hustling crew of casaba artists breezed through George DeAmaral's Valley Club, the high school lightweights, and the Carmel Boys' Club. Herman Menezes, Henry Meyer, Johnny DeAmaral, Keith Mackenzie, Pete Carpenter, Paul Ricketson, and Pierre Boutet carried most of the load for the CYO club. These CYO boys have been practicing faithfully for the last two months and appear capable of handling themselves in good competition.

BADMINTON & BASKETBALL CLASSES TO BE RESUMED NEXT WEEK

The Carmel Adult School physical education classes which were halted during the Christmas vacation period will take up again on Monday, January 3. John Westover's basketball sessions will hold sway on Monday and Wednesday from 7:30 to 10 o'clock, and Coach Mosolf's badminton classes will be on Tuesday and Thursday at the same time. All men are welcome to participate in the basketball sessions, while the badminton classes are open to both men and women. Tennis shoes of non-marking rubber is the only equipment required for either of the classes. Racquets are furnished in the badminton class and birds can be purchased at the gym. Beginners, intermediate, and experts can find competition to their liking in the Tuesday and Thursday meetings, and it's a good way to trim down after the holiday feasting.

CROSBY PRO-AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY SET FOR JANUARY

The golf tournament which provides more fun and does more good than any other golfing event will get under way at Cypress Point on January 14, move to the Monterey Peninsula Country Club on January 16, and wind up at Pebble Beach on January 16. All the proceeds from this Crosby enterprise are turned over to charity and Bing assumes all the expenses and provides the $10,000 prize money for the professionals.

The Crosby tournament is different from any of the other golf championships in that the golfers appear to have lots of fun while battling against par. Good natured heckling and comedy stints make this tournament a delight for the spectators.

While all the top professional and amateur golfers will be on hand to try their luck for the top prizes, the gallery will also have an opportunity to watch their favorite movie stars beat their way out of a sand trap. Besides sponsor Crosby, who swings a steady stick, there will be a supporting cast of Johnny Weismuller, John Hodiak, Richard Arlen, Randolph Scott, Dennis O'Keefe, and a host of other movie personages.

Lefty O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco Seals, will put his smooth baseball swing to work in an effort to pick up a few pars. Football will be represented by the great Stanford fullback, Ernie Nevers, and USC's Marshall Duffield.

Sunday golfers who may want the cure for that slice will be interested to know that there will be another golf clinic this year. The clinic and driving contest will be held on Thursday, January 13, at Pebble Beach. Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, and other great professionals will demonstrate how easy it is when you do it right.

French Art In Bad Way Says Abel Warshawsky

have carried their theories to a ridiculous point—I know one painter who works with his eyes closed.

"The general trend in Europe is a return to the Beaux Arts," he added. "Artist and public alike are discovering that the canvases considered masterpieces of color a few years ago are now growing dim and dull because the painter had no understanding of the fundamental principles of applying paint. Colors applied without proper underpainting sink into the canvas after a time and lose their brilliance. On the other hand, some of the recently-cleaned Rembrandts are just as fresh and clear as the day they were painted.

"Rembrandt's work has been considered dark and often even gloomy in range, but when the dozen or so coats of varnish, applied with good intentions by owners of the pictures, have been removed by a careful process that takes months, the original colors are startling.

"Dali, by the way, is right in this respect," Buck pointed out. "His insistence on a return to the basic techniques of oil, without which a painting cannot be properly executed, is perfectly sound. Just as a writer cannot express even the most profound and interesting ideas unless he has studied grammar and syntax, so a painter must learn to draw, underpaint, and mix colors correctly before he can produce a work of art of more than transitory value."

Many of his friends have found that they are too poor to paint and have had to find other means of earning a living, Warshawsky said.

"Money is scarce in France," he explained. "Paint and canvas are terribly expensive, and there are few buyers for the finished work. The people of Europe are spending their money on the bare necessities of life."

"Things haven't changed much in literature since 1939. In spite of a certain stir about Existentialism, which is merely an expression of the general feeling of futility in Europe, Jean Paul Sartre is better known in the United States than in France, except for a small clique in Paris. The most widely talked about writer is still Henry Miller, especially since he's been banned by the French Academy."

Warshawsky's own book was published in May of this year by the Edition Montbrun, Paris. Representing the fruit of ten years' work, Impressions de Paris is a volume of 25 paintings, with French text by Roger Louis Pillet and a foreword by Pulitzer Prize (1943) winner Forrest Wilson. A few copies of the book are on display at the Carmel Art Gallery this week.

A one-man show at the gallery some time in January will include some work done during his recent stay in France, among which will be a portrait of Margaret Dienelt, Carmel resident recently returned from abroad, at whose home Buck stayed while in Antibes. This show will be followed by an exhibit at Gump's in San Francisco.

"These will be 'genuine oil paintings'," he said with a twinkle in his eye, "all 'painted by hand.' I guarantee it."—John Upton.

Francis B. Mastin

Francis B. Mastin, Jr., for the past two years engaged in the real estate business here, died Sunday at a Peninsula hospital where he had been under treatment for pneumonia since Saturday.

Born 34 years ago in Paris, France, Mastin was graduated from the Sorbonne after receiving his early education on the continent. After several years in Paris and New York, he was engaged as office manager for a Southern California aircraft company during the recent war. He moved to Carmel early in 1947, when he served as travel councillor for Norberg Travel Service. Later he was employed as a salesman by the Leslie Realty Company and by the Carmel Investment Company. Mastin was affiliated with the latter firm at the time of his death.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Roberta Mastin, and two children, Jan Elizabeth and Anthony Michael Mastin, all of Carmel; his mother, Mrs. Helene Callan of Pebble Beach; and a sister, Mrs. Milton Gardener of Santa Monica.

Private services were held Monday afternoon at the Little Chapel by the Sea Crematorium, Pacific Grove, under the direction of the Paul Mortuary.

Robert Gros Speaker For Woman's Club Monthly Meeting

Robert R. Gros, interviewer of political leaders here and abroad, lecturer and publicist, will be the speaker at the initial meeting in the new building of the Carmel Women's Club on Monday at 2:30 o'clock.

Mr. Gros, who will be introduced by Mrs. Verne Skillman, program chairman, graduated from Stanford with high scholastic honors, and a Phi Beta Kappa key. Having majored in political science he was on the faculty of the University for one year as debate coach.

For the past nine years Mr. Gros has averaged 200 lectures a year throughout the western states on current affairs, appearing befor press clubs, national forums and civic organizations. At Monday's meeting the speaker will give an all-over picture of world politics.

Lillian Bos Ross Guest Speaker At Literature Class

Lillian Bos Ross, author of The Stranger and other novels dealing with the Big Sur country, will be the guest speaker at Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's current literature group at 7:30 Tuesday evening, January 4, in room 11 of Sunset School, and visitors are invited to join the discussion around the conference table.

Mrs. Ross, who lives at Partington Ridge with her sculptor husband, Harry Dick Ross, will talk about her writing experiences and will give her refreshing view of the history of this region. Her researches, as well as her personal knowledge of the Santa Lucia mountain life, promise to provide a rich entertainment.

Building and Construction Trades Council of Monterey County
P. O. Box 611
Monterey, California
December 26, 1948

Editor, Carmel Pine Cone,
Dear Sir:

At the November 18 meeting of the Monterey County Building and Construction Trades Council, it was brought to the attention of the delegates present that the city councils of Pacific Grove and Monterey were studying a city sales tax.

At this meeting it was pointed out that should these sales taxes be put into effect, it would cause an unfair burden to be placed upon the small wage earners who are unable to make their purchases outside of the Monterey or Pacific Grove area. To the people of more substantial means this tax would make no difference because they would be in a position to make their purchases outside of this district where there is no tax.

Many of our tradesmen who live outside of Monterey or Pacific Grove have expressed their intention of buying everything possible outside Monterey or Pacific Grove if this sales tax is put into effect. This would naturally cause a loss of revenue to the merchants of these two cities and cause the money that should be spent on the Peninsula to go to other cities.

Therefore, in fairness to our members and the merchants, the Monterey County Building and Construction Trades Council passed by a unanimous vote of the delegates present to go on record as being unequivocally opposed to the passage of a city sales tax in any form.

Will you please print this letter in your paper at your earliest convenience so the general public may know the stand the Monterey County Building and Construction Trades Council has taken concerning any form of city sales tax.

Yours truly,

of these classes, and has traced down all but these 14 students. His data will answer these questions: Did the student enter college? Was he graduated? If he is working, how is he employed?

Superintendent Stuart Mitchell and the school board are enthusiastic in their support of Miller's project, as they feel such facts would be of great value for future setup of the advisory system. Rate of successful adjustment to adult life could be more accurately estimated with the help of such statistics as the proposed paper would make available.

Miller may be reached at the high school, at P. O. box 2425, or at Carmel 2210-M.

Gustav Nelson

Gustav Conrad Nelson, retired postal service employee who made his home in Carmel for the past nine months, died Sunday at his residence at Tenth and Monte Verde, following a long illness. He was born October 5, 1880, in Darlington, Wisconsin.

In addition to his wife, Anna, of Carmel, Nelson leaves a daughter, Vivian Burnette of Oakland, and three brothers and four sisters. A resident of California for the past 45 years, he was a member of the Elks and Scottish Rite lodges of Oakland.

Services were held at the Albert Brown Mortuary, Oakland.

LIONS FASHION SHOW

Unique feature of the Lions Club entertainment scheduled for January 29 at the Mission Ranch will be a fashion show for both men and women, it was announced at the regular meeting Tuesday night. Proceeds from the affair, which will include fashion presentations by two San Francisco clothing firms, dancing, and prizes, will go to the Lions' high school radiant heating fund.

Admission to the show will be $1.50 per person, according to Joe Hudder, chairman for the event. A light touch is expected in the form of a fashion show burlesque by local Lions.

WOODCARVING CLASS

First 1949 session for Commander Howell Armor's woodcarving and sculpture class will be held Monday evening at 7:30 in the Carmel High School shop. Sponsored by the Carmel Adult School, classes meet each Monday and Wednesday for two and a half hours of instruction and shop work.

Commander Armor announces that there is room for a few more students this year, and that tools will be stocked for purchase in about two weeks. In the meantime school sets will be available.

Ever-Popular Barber Of Seville Here In January

Under the direction of Arturo Casiglia, the Pacific Opera Company will present The Barber of Seville in Sunset Auditorium on Friday, January 21, at 8:15 p. m. Tickets will be sold by the Abinante Music Store in Carmel and Monterey.

The Barber of Seville, an operatic theme popular with composers of grand opera in the later part of the 18th century, was brought up to date by Rossini in 1816. One of the most popular and delightful operas presented to American audiences today, The Barber of Seville is substantially the same as when first presented 132 years ago in Rome. Minor changes in orchestration mark the only difference from the original opera. Unlike the year's best play which becomes obsolete the next year a famous opera acquires luster and renown with the years.

Mrs. Gahl Leaves for L. A.

Edward (Chic) Gahl, who has been home from Texas Tech spending the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Ramona C. Gahl, left today to return to school. He was accompanied by his mother and Mrs. Wayne Glover of Monterey, who will go as far as Los Angeles where they will spend next week.

Mrs. Harold E. Wheeler, Mrs. Gahl's daughter, and her small son, Dana Robert, flew yesterday to Honolulu to join Master Sergeant Wheeler, who is on duty there.

consideration. Business property is expensive. That means high rents for housing in the business zone. Also, owners of lots in a small, constricted business district such as ours, demand unreasonable prices and hold on to their property instead of selling to those who would build on it. One of the answers to that would be to assess the property in proportion to their asking prices, and tax accordingly."

Though all necessary data has been gathered, and a map procured, the committee has not yet found time to transfer the material to the map.

Dr. MacWillie's Annual Party

Dr. John MacWillie, whose New Year's Tom and Jerry party is an annual affair, will be assisted in receiving more than 100 guests tomorrow afternoon by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. John MacWillie, Jr., and his daughter, Mrs. Carrie Ball.

Editor, The Pine Cone:

The Monterey Peninsula Tournament, sponsored by the Elks, tournament director, Dan Searle, is a fine institution. It is only fitting that local golfers of the "Golf Capital of the World" should have their own championship. In past years it has been a well managed affair, creating a great deal of interest on the Peninsula.

This year, however, the tournament was a dismal failure in the eyes of many enthusiasts of the sport, who declared it mis-managed from the very start due to lack of interest on the part of those directing the affair.

The tournament was poorly advertised; some prospective entrants and galleryites were unaware even of the dates of qualifying rounds.

The semi-finalists were forced to stagger around the soggy course in a driving rain and wind, such as was responsible for the postponement of the State Championship at Pebble Beach last year. The tournament director could not be reached, and Del Monte assistant pro, Martin Mitchell, said he was without authority to make any ruling.

Why can't the Monterey Peninsula Tournament be organized and managed by those who are glad to manifest their interest and pride in such events? It's a hard task, but none should assume the position who are not willing to really do a thorough job.. Unless steps are taken to run the affair efficiently, in the best interests of players and gallery, the institution might just as well be junked altogether.

TELEVISION MASS

Carmel City Clerk Peter Mawdsley, Mrs. Mawdsley, and daughter, Audrey, spent the Christmas weekend in Pasadena visiting Peter and Virginia, the Mawdsley's son and daughter-in-law. Christmas Day, at the home of Virginia's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Minda of San Marino, there was a family reunion around the Christmas tree with 11 guests. High point of the festivities was hearing and seeing Christmas mass at St. Vivien Cathedral, Los Angeles, by means of the Mindas' television set.

The Mawdsleys will go back to Pasadena New Year's weekend so Audrey, now a junior at University of California, can attend the Rose Bowl game. "Mrs. Mawdsley and I will see the game on the television set," City Clerk Mawdsley said, "but the whole family will see the parade. We have our seats in the bleachers already."

Holman's Advanced Photography Course Resumes Sessions

Arthur Holman's advanced photography class resumes its meetings on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7:30 p. m. in the music room at Sunset School next week. During the Christmas holidays work has progressed in enlarging the darkroom to accommodate more students and equipment. In addition to the Omega projection printer that has been available throughout the fall term, there is a new Eastman enlarger. More equipment and facilities will be installed as soon as the carpentry work is completed.

The course consists of field trips, camera work under studio lights, and dark room sessions. Amateurs who prefer to use their own dark rooms are free to bring their prints to the class for criticism.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

Hello, everybody! Here I am, away down on the Island (or is it an island?) of Coronado, California. I am the guest of the Navy, "having a wonderful time. Wish you were here."

I am too busy attending receptions, viewing battleships and all to think of gardens, but you bet-my-life, before I return to Carmel I will have much talk about what our neighbors are doing in their gardens.

Happy New Year to you all, and please, while I am away, don't forget to water your lawns, if nature does not accommodate with rain. Come January I'll be seeing you.

Joseph Schuster To Play Here In Concert Jan. 5

Joseph Schuster, one of the world's reigning cellists, will be the artist for the third concert of the winter series of the Carmel Music Society. Mr. Schuster has been a frequent visitor to Carmel as guest of the John H. Shephards of Hatton Fields. Mrs. Shephard's sister is the wife of Joseph Schuster.

The concert is Wednesday evening, Sunset Auditorium, Carmel, at 8:30. A few seats are available and may be had at the Carmel Music Society box office, Ocean Avenue. The box office will open Monday, January 3.

This is Schuster's first appearance as a recitalist here. He offers the following program.

Adagio and Allegro, Luigi Boccherini; Variations on a theme from The Magic Flute, Ludwig van Beethoven; Sonata in E Minor, Opus 38, Johannes Brahms; Sonatina in A major, Carl Maria von Weber; Nigun (Improvisation) from Baal Shem, Bloch-Schuster; Masques, from Romeo and Juliet, Prokofieff-Schuster; Habanera, Maurice Ravel; Spanish Dance, De Falla-Schuster, and Variations in A minor, Paganini-Piatigorsky. This transcript for cello is by Gregor Piatigorsky.

Why we say "THANK YOU" four million times a day

1. When the operator says "thank you" as she handles your call, she is of course following a telephone tradition for courtesy. And every day, up and down the Coast, those words are repeated more than four million times by local and long distance operators who are—as always—doing everything they can to give prompt, cheerful service.

2. These are busy days in the West's telephone offices . . . more equipment is handling more calls, twenty million of them each day. And service generally is better, you'll notice. There's relatively little wait for the dial tone. Operators are able to answer more promptly in most places. Long distance calls usually go through in two minutes or less.

3. He's "dropping a line" for another new telephone . . . since V-J Day more than a million have been added on the Coast. We're putting in still more thousands every week. And telephone people . . . operators, installers, service representatives . . . all are doing their level best to welcome our new customers in their usual friendly and helpful way.

4. As 1948 ends, Pacific Telephone adds another "thank you"—for your patronage. We deeply appreciate the understanding of those waiting for service. We are doing our best to provide the telephones the West needs and to make your telephone increasingly valuable to you.

Husbands and beaus: what better way to give force to all your New Year's resolutions about being more considerate, than to present your love with a corsage for New Year's Eve? At FLOR DE MONTEREY on Franklin street in Monterey you'll find flowers to suit every temperament: all kinds of glamorous orchids, roses for the regal or the demure, poetic violets, sensuous gardenias, sophisticated camellias. Begin your New Year with a call to FLOR DE MONTEREY, Monterey 7885.

Let someone else drive for you New Year's Eve is a good safety motto, and JOE'S TAXI DEPOT, Carmel 15, is the place to call. Particularly this weekend will you bless the fact that JOE'S TAXI DEPOT is one place in Carmel open all night, for the lunch counter there is prepared for any number of early morning snack seekers. The cozy fire will be blazing away, so stop in on the way home.

Parents need to be just people once in a while, and children appreciate a brief change from home. FOREST HILLS SCHOOL, Carmel 2213, will keep your small tots both safe and happy overnight, or just during the day when you are making the eggnog round. Call Anne Douglas, director of FOREST HILLS SCHOOL, and discuss your particular problem of hours: she is sure to work out a solution that's happy-making for all conterned.

Mr. and Mrs. Beall, of the new BEALL'S HEALTH CENTER on Mission at Fifth street, wish you a happy and a Healthy New Year. Let me add, that a steam bath with massage with ultra-violet is certainly one way to quick recovery from holiday stress and strain. A visit to BEALL'S HEALTH CENTER comes high up on the list of good resolutions, in my opinion! Call 387-W for an appointment. Incidentally, evening sessions can be arranged.

HENRY, HAIRSTYLIST, wishes all the women on the Peninsula a happy and a beautiful New Year. If you relaxed luxuriously in his new salon at the Casa Munras Shopping Center in Monterey for your New Year's Eve hairdo, you've made a good beginning on the beauty part of 1949. HENRY'S phone is the same, Monterey 8097, and so are your favorite members of his staff, only since he moved from the rushed place at the San Carlos Hotel he offers you a larger more leisurely salon.

Let laundry tasks add nary a line to a cheerful smile in 1949! Whisk up the extra wash due to holiday guests and dump the works at the LITTLE GEM LAUNDRAMATIC at Junipero and Fourth streets. Heavy or light, colored or white, let the machines there do your washing, and dry it, too. Jot LITTLE GEM on your resolution list if you try to keep that crytic; you will know, if the family won't, that it means: resolved, easier homemaking, more time for family.

MAC'S POULTRY MARKET on San Carlos at Fifth street wants to wish all its patrons a very Happy New Year. This weekend you'll find a full selection of roasters, fryers, broilers and fricassees, and fresh ranch eggs for your eggnogs.

HARRIET DUNCAN, whose shop is on Lincoln at Fifth has scarcely caught her breath yet after the busy gift season, but has enough to say fervently to all her friends, "Thank you for your patronage, and a most Happy New Year!"

P. D. Disarms Three Youthful Commandos

Three chastened amateur commandos straggled into the Carmel police station Tuesday afternoon to surrender their weapons after a series of surprise raids in the neighborhood of Santa Fe and Eighth. The shiny air rifles were obviously Christmas presents, and officers noted with some alarm that the stock of one was already decorated with six notches.

The three boys, 10, 11, and 12, were accused by Miss Molly Gibbons of Santa Fe and Mountain View, of breaking a large window in her home. Despite repeated warnings the militant trio continued their invasion of the neighborhood, Miss Gibbons said, and slightly wounded Miss Elizabeth Henderson, Santa Fe and Eighth, before surrendering in an orderly fashion. Miss Henderson was hit in the hand, but was not seriously injured since she was wearing a glove at the time.

"It would suit me if he never gets his gun back," one harrassed mother told police. "If I had it here now, I'd break it over his bottom."

Police were regarding the confiscated weapons uneasily this week, wondering about the other five notches.

MIDNIGHT SERVICE TONIGHT

There will be a half hour service at the Church of the Wayfarer tonight commencing at 11:30 o'clock. Meditation, conducted by the Rev. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, will be followed by Holy Communion. Margaret Sherman Lea will be at the organ.

Olivier's Hamlet Reviewed

By John Wilgress

Laurence Olivier's screen production of Hamlet opens at the Golden Bough on New Year's Day for an indefinite run. We are deeply indebted to Mr. Kuster's enterprise for the opportunity of seeing this film; and anyone who fails to see it will miss much. For Shakespeare's Hamlet is a very great play, and Olivier's screen version is a very good film. Moreover it is a film whose beauties and defects raise many interesting questions as to the distinction between the screen and the stage—important distinctions, if we are to have both good films and good plays.

Laurence Olivier is an actor of great power and finish and his production and his conception of Hamlet's character will surely find a permanent place in the galaxy of famous performances. Every producer must cut the play, and by his own cutting Olivier has emphasized the neurotic aspect of Hamlet's disillusion. Had he retained more of those scenes and parts of scenes which are so brilliantly illuminated by Hamlet's barbed and penetrating wit, I believe the disillusion would have appeared even more profound, the character more loveable, and the "problem" of the play deeper and more mysterious. But the cutting is consistent—Ophelia is even denied the famous lines which remind us what Hamlet once was and in other conceptions of the part still is—

The courtier's, soldier's scholar's eye, tongue sword;
The expectancy and rose of the fair state,
The glass of fashion, and the mould of form and Olivier is at all times equal to his interpretation. Indeed, his violent moments have an authenticity and a depth which future performers will hardly better.

In the role of Queen Gertrude, Eileen Herlie gives an impeccable performance of an exceedingly difficult part, for she convinces us instantly and keeps us convinced that the lover of Claudius and the mother of Hamlet are one and the same woman—and how few actresses achieve this. But what a thousand pities that we did not see as well as hear her speak those wonderful lines beginning

There is a willow grows aslant a brook . . .

No photographic image of that ill-fated brook is necessary because the weeds and the water are all in the poetry. The point of the speech, surely, is not only to acquaint us with the physical circumstance of Ophelia's pathetic death, but also to reveal a mood of lyrical pathos in the queen, a mood which helps us considerably to understand Hamlet's disgust at her refusal to live as her better self could live, and indeed does in this brief speech.

And this leads one to consider in what ways the adaptation of the play to the screen can help an audience to reach a more deeply imagined understanding of Shakespeare's meaning. Hamlet's consideration of suicide could not, I think, be more breathtakingly revealed than by placing him on the dizzy edge of the rampart above the sea, truly "a sea of troubles," and shaped, for an instant, like the lobes of a brain. That was pure Shakespeare and excellent "film." Likewise the whole of the players' scene, and especially the mimed play within the play. Nor, possibly, has the difficult business of the exchanged cups and swords in the final scene, nor Hamlet's leap to his ultimate deed been more adroitly and powerfully portrayed. But was it wise to sacrifice so much of the text in order to gain time to be spent on building an atmosphere of mist and arches and labyrinthine stairways? I think not. For although a very highly developed background did wonderfully enlarge the meaning and scope of Henry V, the inner meanings of Hamlet need little physical background and certainly not a medieval one. The intellectual texture of the play is not medieval at all. In some respects it is timeless; in most it is palpably of the late sixteenth century.

These are questions. Only a swift and finely wrought production such as Olivier's could raise them. Of Shakespeare we ask nothing because, as Matthew Arnold wrote of him . . .

Others abide our question: thou art free.

Carmel Police Put Up Road Block To Stop Ord Soldier

Carl Falcome, Fort Ord soldier, was sentenced Tuesday to 45 days in the county jail with 30 days suspended, after pleading guilty to battery charges filed by Luis F. Wolters, Jr., of Carmel Valley. Wolters, 16, told deputy sheriffs that Falcome and two other men became belligerent Sunday afternoon when he refused to sell them a bottle of wine at the Wolters valley market, and that Falcome attacked him.

Falcome, who had left the scene when Wolters called Carmel police, was apprehended a few minutes later by a sheriff's car as he drove up the valley road in an erratic manner. A road block at Highway No. 1 was maintained by Carmel police until deputies arrived from Monterey. Falcome said he was intoxicated at the time of the beating. The other two men were not held.

Road To Peace Could Lie By Way Of South America, Says Robbins

at the time how it would survive translation. Before the professor could open his mouth, the group burst into laughter. I asked for a show of hands of those who could not understand me. Not a one. We finished that lecture in English."

In each country visited, Dr. Robbins got in touch with the American embassy on arrival, where he found his itinerary already made out by the agricultural attache.

"Traveling in South America is easy and pleasant," he said. "Almost everywhere we went the hotels were good, the food was excellent and plentiful, and the airline service was nearly perfect. The highways, particularly near the large cities, are quite as good as any of ours.

"The airlines are really rather surprising. American ships, almost all American pilots, good fields. Nearly all the small communities, formerly completely inaccessible by road, can be reached in a few minutes by air."

The botanist was lavish in his praise of the soil and climate of Latin America.

"They can raise anything we do, and more," he explained.. "The staples of course, are rice, beans, and corn—not the sweet corn we see here in the markets, but maize. Then there are bananas, pineapples, sugar cane, hemp, sesame, rubber, tea, coffee, peanuts, oil palm, and so on. Many of the vegetable oils that have become so valuable recently for commercial use, such as peanut, sesame, and palm, are produced in great quanties."

At this point, Mrs. Robbins, an alert and quick moving woman who, according to her husband, speaks French, German, and "much better Spanish than I do," popped her head in the door.

"Don't forget to tell him about being appointed an honorary professor at the University of Montevideo!"

"My particular interest has been in weed control," Dr. Robbins said hurriedly. "This is one of the most effective methods we have of increasing crop yield, and more progress has been made in the field in the past eight or ten years than in all history. Labor is a tremendous factor in farming, and anything that lightens such work as hoeing and weed pulling speeds up the whole business. One of the chief purposes of my visit was to explain our methods of selective spraying, such as were used over two million acres in the American corn belt this year."

Author and co-author of nine books on botany and allied subjects since 1914, Dr. Robbins is putting finishing touches on A Textbook of Botany for college use. He plans to retire from his post at Davis, where he has headed the botany department since 1922, within the next year or two, when he will move to Carmel to take up residence at his summer home at Ocean and Carmelo.

Lady Windermere's Fan Plays This Week End At First Theatre

Preparations for the annual New Year's Eve performance at the First Theater, Monterey, are going on merrily. The Troupers of the Gold Coast, who for 11 years have given hilarious evenings on the historic First Theater stage, will be seen on Friday night, December 31, in their current success, Lady Windermere's Fan, directed by Lee Crowe.

The witty, brilliant Oscar Wilde comedy-melodrama will be followed, according to tradition, by gay olio acts, making an aftershow of entertainment in keeping with New Year's Eve. The performance will conclude by 10:45, in ample time for later New Year's Eve parties.

Lady Windermere's Fan will not only play December 31, but also on Saturday night, January 1. Tickets are on sale at Staniford's Drug Store, and at the First Theater, Monterey. Large parties are being made up for the annual celebration, and, according to box office reports, the front rows are in heavy demand.

Woman's Club New Building Opens Monday On Schedule

Right on the minute in accordance with a schedule planned several months ago the new Club House of the Carmel Woman's Club at San Carlos and Ninth streets will be ready for the organization's first meeting of 1949, which will be held on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Mrs. Benjamin G. Johnson, presiding.

Mrs. Saxton Pope, building chairman, even through the shivery rains of the early part of the week, couldn't keep away from San Carlos and Ninth streets where workmen were rushing the finishing touches. Right through Monday's downpour she and her committee stuck to their plan of "Moving Day." Club furnishings and accessories that have been "parked out" in the Scout house and various members' homes were carted to their new and permanent home.

"We won't be quite so spic and span as a New England housewife might like by next Monday, but it won't be the fault of the many workmen and artisans, or my committee members. They've all worked like beavers."

Mrs. Pope's committee includes Mrs. Alton H. Walker, Mrs. J. O. Handley, Mrs. Raymond G. Smith, Miss Amy Campbell, and Mrs. Benjamin C. Johnson.

HI CHATTER

By Nancy Page

Vacation time has brought many of last year's graduates home for the holidays from universities and colleges all over the country. With all the parties and reunions that have been held during the past two weeks, it's seemed just like old times to have the class of '48 around again.

Joy Miller, a geology student at Santa Barbara, flew home for Chistmas, and her round of activities during the vacation has included a visit to Atherton early this week. Ginger Klein and Judy Campbell of Mills College have an unusually long vacation, and have been home since early this month. Among Ginger's school activities are membership in the tennis and riding clubs, and duty as a lifeguard at the school pool. She spent some time this week at Yosemite skiing with other CHS graduates. Judy, a dramatics major, has been active in the drama department at Mills. She had one of the leading roles in Carl Sandburg's The People, Yes, the first play presented there this year, and she is now an apprentice to the drama club. Judy is also publicity manager for her hall, and is on the business staff of the school paper. Sunny Cook is home from Colorado Woman's College in Denver, and with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cook, will travel to Pasadena to see the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day. After the game Sunny will leave for Denver by train from Los Angeles.

Several Stanford students from CHS's class of '48 who are home for the holidays include Paul Warner, Mat Schmutz, John Blinks, Bob Barry, and Rod Dewar. Rod left Carmel on Christmas Day to fly to New York where he will spend New Year's Eve with Peggy Riker, a Carmel graduate now attending Vassar College. Peggy has spent part of her vacation with friends who live near the Vassar campus and the rest in New York. She has already distinguished herself in college life by being the only freshman on the staff of her school paper. Sue Moore, student at Mt. Holyoke in Massachusetts, spent the holidays visiting friends and relatives in New York and in Pittsburgh. Tonight she will celebrate New Year's Eve with friends of her brother, Bill, at a reunion of his classmates at Kiske prep school, which he attended in Saltsburg, Pennsylvania.

Phil Wettengel came home to Carmel by plane from the University of Oklahoma where he is taking a pre-law course. Phil is president of his pledge group in the Delta Tau Delta fraternity at the University. Murrey Wight, an architectural major, is here for the vacation from college at Hillsdale, Michigan, where he is also a Delta Tau Delta pledge. Lew McCreery, who is studying business administration and is a member of the freshman football squad, is home from the University of Arizona. Owen Greenan is on vacation from his mining engineering studies at Nevada University. Pat Casey, who is majoring in criminology at San Jose State College, can be seen on Carmel's streets wearing the official uniform of the Carmel Police Department, and busily helping to untangle holiday traffic problems. Curtis Gorham, who arrived home from Menlo J. C. took advantage of the snow to go skiing earlier this week with Bob Barry.

Margot Boice is here from USC where she is an English major. She is pledged to the Chi Omega sorority at the University. Karen Williams, who is studying drama at the Pasadena Playhouse, is back in Carmel for the holidays. Joan Harrington, a Spanish major at San Francisco College for Women, has a slightly longer vacation which lasts into next week. She recently took part in a Christmas play entitled Angel of the Nations at the college. Lorene Townsend arrived home Monday night on vacation from the University of California. She is majoring in English and is pledged to Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Many Monterey Peninsula College students are numbered among last year's graduates. Some of these include Pat Dormody, Bob Rissel, David Ferguson, Craig Shattuck, Wynne Hutchings, Richard Rea, Frank Timmins, Bev Dowgiallo, Carmelita Fortier, Nancy Anderson, Becky Bell, Joan McGrath, Shirley Petty, Betty Plaxton, Betty Hendricks, Carol Hildebrand, Roberta Roberts, Sherlie Sousa, and Wanda Warren. Colleen Dolan is attending Hartnell college in Salinas, as is Loudres Brosnan.

A few of the '48ers are now serving Uncle Sam. Dick Mulholland is home on a short leave from his Navy duties and Nelson Byers is now in the Air Corps, although he didn't have his leave at the right time for the holidays. Lee Winslow was home for Christmas from Memphis, Tennessee, where he is attending Naval Aviation School.

Check the Price – check the Policy – "Buick's the Buy!"

EVER since this '49 Buick made its bow, we've been telling you it's a buy.

We've invited you to match it—feature by feature and dollar for dollar—with anything else offered to you. You can start with the delivered prices shown here.

But don't stop with that. Check the policy under which Buicks are sold—and see for yourself that Buick means a better deal as well as a better buy!

Briefly, our Four-Square sales policy is this:

1. NO PRICE PADDING! We guarantee our prices to contain nothing but charges that were standard practice in figuring prewar delivered prices. You receive an itemized bill of sale showing all charges. And we display our prices in our showroom.
2. NO "LOADING" OF UNWANTED ACCESSORIES. All cars are delivered with accessories as ordered. We pledge ourselves to add no "extras" you do not want.
3. NO COMPULSORY TRADE-INS. Selling used cars is part of our business. Naturally we like to take cars in trade. But you do not have to sell your car to us! We will take your order, and deliver your car, without requiring a car in trade!
4. NO COLLUSION WITH "GRAY MARKETEERS." We will not knowingly be party to a sale of Buick cars to any individual who operates in the "gray market." Our interest is entirely in delivering cars to bona fide customers.

In other words—you know exactly where you stand when you buy a Buick. What you get—what you pay—all the details of the deal open and aboveboard.

So we repeat: Check the price. Check the policy. Buick's the buy any way you want to look at it.

Pet Is Killed

Small golden Blondie Dolman, known to all Carmel as the constant companion of her mistress, Mrs. Alice Bartlett Dolman, died Tuesday. The gentle little spaniel, who had lived in Carmel for the past seven years and had reached the age of 15, was hit by a truck.

Women's Auxiliary Officers

The last entertainment of 1948 given by the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' Episcopal Church was a tea in honor of the new members of the Auxiliary and the Church, and the special feature of the afternoon was the program given by John Farr's High School Student Choir. Against a background of shining green and bright red holly the boys and girls in their wine red robes sang religious and secular Christmas carols with a skill and enthusiasm that delighted the audience. Miss June Kocher gave a piano solo, from the French Suite No. 1 by Bach; and Miss Patricia Timbers' rendering of the Intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana, on the flute, was excellent.

Before the concert there was a brief business meeting at which $1,000 (from the proceeds of the bazaar held in November) was given to the building fund of the new church.

The following officers were elected for 1949; Mrs. J. L. Piper, president; Mrs. Donald D. MacGregor, vice-president; Mrs. Leon O. Fisher, treasurer; Mrs. L. F. Squire, corresponding secretary.

Chairmen of the various committees were elected: program, Mrs. Bruce Bacon; devotions, Mrs. Vera Peck Millis; publicity, Mrs. F. C. Elstob; production, Miss Alice McClure, assisted by Mrs. Philip Preble; united thank offering, Mrs. F. Garner Boice; world relief, Mrs. Walter Lehmann; young people's fellowship, Mrs. James P. McNeill; missionary society, Mrs. C. G. Strickland; house committee, Mrs. Grace W. Wood and Mrs. M. K. Hall. Miss Flora Stewart was elected chairman of decorations and also chairman of the altar guild.

The nominating committee was Mrs. Rush R. Wallace, Mrs. J. P. McNeill and Mrs. F. G. Boice.

Mrs. D. Macmillan Kerr in retiring as president of the Auxiliary said that in her two and one half years in office the entire membership of the auxiliary, the church, and the community had given her unfailing co-operation and support. Mrs. R. Ellis Roberts is retiring after four years as publicity chairman, three years as recording secretary, and one year as missionary chairman.

D. A. R. Makes Awards

Miss Pat Timbers of Carmel High School and Miss Barbara Young of Pacific Grove High School, recipients of honor awards, were the honor guests at the Daughters of the American Revolution, Commodore Sloat Chapter, Christmas tea held last Tuesday at the home of Miss Mary Frances Hairgrove in Pacific Grove.

A short business meeting, at which Mrs. Marcia F. DeVoe, regent, presided, was followed by a talk and demonstration in gift wrapping by Miss Ruth Blanchard, home economics instructor of Monterey High School.

Mrs. Bess Ward contributed to the afternoon's entertainment by presenting five of her students from Pacific Grove High School, Misses Joan Schendel, Lois Boherman, Yvonne Puget, Jane Dix and Roberta Maher, who sang a group of early English and conventional Christmas carols.

Those attending the meeting included Mrs. L. K. Bambauer, Mrs. William Moore, Mrs. Marion A. Finkell, Mrs. Roy W. Frisbee, Mrs. Minerva Beard, Mrs. J. K. Paul, Mrs. A. H. Voorhis, Miss Estelle Tuck and Miss Elizabeth Merrill.

Marjorie Pittman Elected

Miss Marjorie Pittman, succeeding Miss Margaret McIntire, was elected president of the Church of the Wayfarer Guild (Business and Professional Women's group) at their annual business meeting last Tuesday. Miss E. Hildegarde Swenson was elected vice-president, Miss Barbara Teschke, secretary, Miss Florence Smythe, treasurer, and Miss Floss Moguin, member-at-large of the steering committee. The next regular meeting will be held January 11.

Dance At Legion Hall Tonight

Those people in Carmel who have been wondering how they are going to spend New Year's Eve have an opportunity of enjoying a grand time at the dance and party starting at 9 o'clock tonight and lasting into the New Year at the Legion Hall on Dolores street.

The dance is sponsored by the Carmel American Legion Post but is open to everyone. A good dance band has been secured and plenty of noise and fun makers will be on hand to help provide the New Year's Eve entertainment.

A charge of $1.50 per person is being made to cover expenses of the orchestra and entertainment. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from Jimmie Kelsey, entertainment committee chairman of the Legion, or L. F. Bosshardt at El Fumador.

Mrs. Thomas A. Work's Party

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Work entertained more than 100 friends last Thursday evening in their Pebble Beach home. The drawing room with its dusty pink walls was lighted by tall chartreuse candles set in bronze candelabras. The cypress laden mantel, dramatized with bright Christmas ornaments gleaming through the green boughs, was a Christmas picture in the modern manner. A buffet supper was served in the dining room. Lighted by white candles, the room with its dark green waalls, white rugs and draperies, presented a charming picture.

Miss Jacqueline Work, home on vacation from the University of California, assisted her mother in receiving.

Carmel's Christmas Baby

Police Officer Arthur McEwen and Mrs. McEwen are the parents of Carmel's Christmas baby. Alan, a sturdy lad of 7 pounds 11½ ounces, arrived at the Peninsula Community Hospital at 9:56 last Friday night. Great was the excitement in the McEwen household what with Gwen, aged within a few days of two years old, expecting Santa Claus, and the rest of the family awaiting the arrival of Alan, who is named for his grandfather. "One of my best Christmas presents," Officer McEwen told The Pine Cone, "was from Chief Roy Fraties. He took over my duty while I dashed up the hill to be on hand when my son was born." Mother and son went home from the hospital on Tuesday.

NEW RESOLUTIONS

By K. Fillmore Gray
Rector, Church of the Wayfarer

There is probably not a person, however discouraged or hopeless he may seem, who has not at one time or another had good intentions and made new resolutions. We are inspired from day to day and especially at the beginning of a new year, and in the face of the opportunities which lie before us, we say: "You can count me in on that."

In this regard we are like the young man in the biblical parable. When his father called him, he said: "I go, sir." And we are also described in the latter words of this parable: "and he went not." Here in the briefest of sentences is a description of our good resolutions and what often happens to them. We accept a responsibility, we promise to make our efforts count toward a great cause. We say: "I'll be there, you can count on me, I will do better than I have." But how often the sad finale to our story is in the words: "but he went not—nothing happened, he didn't do a thing about it."

Plutarch tells how Socrates called a young man to the good life, and the fellow was so moved that he cried. And yet time and again he would desert Socrates who had to go after him as though he were an escaped slave.

The problem, then, is not a new one, but will be well to consider as we face a new year. What are the perils than stand in the way of our good intentions and resolutions? In the first place, the whole story is not told, the battle is not won when we have accepted a new high purpose and have made our good resolutions. This is only a prelude, it is not the grand finale.

Then, in the second place, we must accept the fact that to follow through on our good intentions and resolutions is not necessarily as easy as it seems at first glance. There may be some difficulties involved. He who puts his hand to the plow but when the monotony and drudgery begin to pall and when the muscles begin to ache, turns back—that person is not fit for the kingdom of high purpose. His good resolutions die before they have ever had a chance to live.

We see in the third place that we cannot separate our high purposes and good resolutions from our personal responsibility. In the strange mathematics of our thinking, many of us equate our good intentions with their fulfillment. And having had a good impulse, we quiet our conscience with the thought that this was equal to the fulfillment of it. And there is still another aspect of this personal responsibility. So many of our good intentions and good resolutions have to do with our responsibility to groups, to society, to the world, perhaps. But no group or organization can ever achieve anything without responsible men and women who will take a personal share in maintaining that cause.

There is no good resolution or high purpose that amounts to anything unless individuals say: "This means me. The responsibility for achieving this is mine." Whether it be in establishing international thinking in an atomic age, providing food for a starving world, cultivating character, or helping to establish a sensitive conscience in regard to the issues of our day, we need more than just good intentions and a fleeting high purpose. For resolution must crystalize into a sense of responsibility and then into wholehearted action.

On the threshold of 1949 we ought to realize again that our good resolution is only the beginning. Upon the body of an Australian soldier, killed in battle, these lines were found:

I saw the powers of darkness take their flight;
I saw the morning break.

The world in which we live demands men and women whose high purpose and whose sense of personal responsibility can put to flight the dark powers, and who have the vision to see the morning break.

There is great need for those who, even in

WINTER SUN-CUPS

Gold leaves
Of gingko trees
Have fallen to the ground
And gleam from the grass like sun-cups
In spring.

—Helen Genevieve Jefferson

DIALECTIC

Past questions of whatever now look back
Through arches of our antecedent years.
Somewhere within the past the word we lack,
The reply appears.

What mind has fathomed only can mind ask.
We question who can compass the reply
And what we question flowers from the past
When we knew why.

So old wise men threw their books away
And questioned all things eagerly, for love
Of knowing that they knew. No man can say
What thing he has not known the meaning of.

—J. S. Moodey.

A LONELY ROAD

The travelling salesmen stream the highways;
Their chromium gleams the thoroughfare.
But the road to heaven is wide and lonely;
I seldom see travellers going there.

The world rides up to the Business Office,
The dictaphone and the swivel chairs,
In elevators exploded upward.
Nobody takes the golden stairs.

The travelling salesmen come home again,
The elevators drop down like rain,
But the stairs climb up in an empty sky
And the road to heaven is wide and bare.

—J. S. Moodey.

POEM

Dim as an image caught in gelatin
That light and chemistry make black and white,
From space as far, of elements as thin
As through a lens are funneled glints of light;
And often negative, so that the end
Is not what struck the focussed mind entire
But a reversal—where black shadows tend
Toward diamondshine, where smoke transforms to fire
Till final print, exact in tone and shade:
A poem thus conceals the steps it made.

A NEW YEAR—A NEW HORIZON

By Alfred B. Seccombe
Rector, All Saints' Episcopal Church

We have always looked upon this country of ours as a land of promise and opportunity. It has also, in a very real sense, ever been the haven for those seeking a new beginning. California is peopled by persons who have been coming west in the past hundred years seeking to begin life anew. Most of us come to Carmel not primarily for hope of material gain but more importantly we come hoping to live life in a way that we have always dreamed that we would like. The New Year affords us exactly the same sort of opportunity—the chance for a new beginning.

It is the custom of many to begin the New Year fortified with a set of resolutions. These are usually drawn up from the realization and acknowledgement of our failures and sins of the past year. Whereupon we promise ourselves, or the stars, or sometimes God that in the New Year we will neither repeat our past failures nor commit again our past sins.

This is a part of wisdom but not the whole wisdom of God, at least as the Church understands it. We will keep some of our resolutions, but we won't manage to keep them all. "For the good that I would do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do" (Romans 7:19). This was St. Paul's personal experience, and Paul was a Christian—a profound Christian. Those who fail to keep all of their resolutions, especially those honest of heart, will be of despair, but don't despair, for you are yet to know of the whole truth.

Acknowledgement of one's failures and sins is half the truth, but the greater half is the good news of the possibility of the new life—of the new beginning. Christianity says acknowledge your sins, confess them, that God may forgive them and you may begin anew. There is always a new beginning in Christ no matter how often we have to confess the same transgression.

The good news is the ever new beginning in Christ. If it is the new beginning, the New Year, that we look forward to, then it is unwise to dwell too long on the past—on past sins. Resolutions not to fail or sin again have their real importance, but of far greater importance is to look ahead and up for a new horizon.

Most of our horizons, unfortunately, rise little above our respective noses. We see little more than that which we desire for ourselves or that which we feel we deserve—that the world owes us.

Our horizons are so limited that most of mankind lives in a multitude of little worlds strange and foreign to one another. We are all more or less oblivious to the One Great World that is ours if we had but eyes to see, hearts to believe, and courage enough to make real.

One wonders whether it is more important to make a long list of promises not to do again what we did in the past year, or to make a thoughtful list of all the things our new horizon should take in.

To those of us who are drawn to the Man of Galilee, we find Him ever standing at the horizon where time and eternity meet, and we keep asking ourselves do we really see what He sees. Do we follow with all our heart, and soul, and mind? Does our horizon really include God, as we know God in Christ, or does it include only a God of man's own making? Do we live in the Light of the Love of God, or in the shadows caused by the images created by man?

During my war years in the Solomon Islands I asked my good missionary friend, Father Edwards of the Anglican Mission, to preach one Sunday to the men at our Purvis Bay Chapel. The body of his sermon I have long forgotten, but the conclusion is still with me. He was asking the men what was the one question Our Lord would ask of them at the Last Judgment. Would He ask whether or not they had committed this

Ducks and the Rose Bowl

Mayor and Mrs. Fred Godwin have moved headquarters to Los Banos for a few weeks of duck shooting, where they have taken an apartment and have played hosts to other local hunters, including Gene Ricketts and Mike; Waldo Hicks and Johnnie; William Hudson and Joe. Scheduled for a return engagement is William Hudson and Mrs. Hudson. The Hugh Dormodys will also be Godwin guests when the Godwins return to Los Banos after a brief interlude in Pasadena for the Rose Bowl game.

Mrs. Gray Returns From Hospital

Mrs. K. Fillmore Gray, who entered the Peninsula Community Hospital last Monday for a few days' rest and observation, is expected home today. "We have every hope that Mrs. Gray will be able to join the family for New Year's dinner," said Dr. Gray.

Entertain At Bridge

Two "teacup donation" bridge parties were held last week to benefit the building fund of the Carmel Woman's Club whose new club house will open its doors next Monday.

Mrs. Reginald Foster was hostess for three tables of bridge, the winners being Mrs. Keith Evans, first prize, and Mrs. William Buckner, second prize. The room was gay with Christmas decorations. Mrs. Foster is the club's bridge chairman.

Mrs. F. E. Nastzger, hospitality chairman, entertained fourteen for bridge, varying the season's decorative motif with garden flowers.

Study Group Meeting

Discussion and study of party responsibility is the program for a combined meeting of all study groups of the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters next Wednesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. The place is the home of Mrs. Leon Shappell at Lopez and Fourth streets, Carmel, and the leader is Mrs. Frances A. Ballard, president of the organization. Mrs. Ballard will report on the recent conference at the University of California, under auspices of the extension division, on the direct primary and the contribution to state government made by the political parties.

The health survey committee, Mrs. Ferdinand Haasis, chairman, will meet on January 14 at 2:00 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. O. Kellogg, Scenic Drive and Eleventh street. Others interested in the health problems of the county are welcome to attend. On January 19 Mrs. Paul Low will lead another combined meeting of all study groups at Mrs. Shappell's home, with the subject of collective defense pacts. This study is requested by the national League as a part of the study of international relations.

Joan Dekker Engaged

At a cocktail party last Tuesday for a large group of family friends, Mrs. William N. Dekker announced the engagement of her daughter, Joan. Joan, who is a graduate of Carmel High School and now in her junior year at Stanford, will marry David Baldwin Heyler, Jr., of Beverly Hills, in June.

Joan entertained a number of her friends at tea on Wednesday afternoon, including Misses Joan Carr, Alice Morehouse, Penny Kerr, Barbara Timmins, Ann Hodgson, Martha Moller, Betty Ryland, Barbara May, Sydney Hudson, Joyce McKinstry, Jacqueline Work, Joanne Gorham, and Joan's sister, Sue Dekker.

The groom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Baldwin Heyler of Beverly Hills, a graduate of Stanford and a Phi Kappa Psi. He is now studying law at Stanford.

Cyclist Identified!

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Canoles (June Delight) and her mother, Mrs. Carol Edwards, have been entertaining a series of out of town family guests throughout the holidays. Mrs. Canoles' brother, Thornton Edwards, and his family, arrived from Los Angeles in time for Christmas. The next to arrive was her younger brother, Ted, and his family from Atlanta, Georgia. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Edwards are the proud parents of Teddy, Jr., the 4½ year old motorcyclist who has been stirring up Carmel traffic since his arrival from Georgia. Teddy, who has been cited by Believe It or Not Ripley in his 1948 Wonder Book, comes by his cycling talents honestly as his father is a national racing champion. His little sister, Carol Anne, also a visitor, says she doesn't care about motorcycles.

June Canoles, 2nd, who has been visiting her aunt and uncle in Georgia since September returned with them.

The Canoles' daughter, Carol, now Mrs. John Magaldi, will arrive with her husband tonight from Reno, making the family circle complete.

CHRISTMAS FIRE

Fire causing damage estimated at $50 at the E. A. H. Watson residence at Eighth and Monte Verde early Christmas morning was probably caused by a forgotten cigarette, according to the Fire Department. Firemen arrived at 3:30 a. m. to find an overstuffed chair and a portion of the rug in flames. Fire apparently broke out in the chair after the family had retired for the night.

The Albee's Christmas Party

Jo Ezelyn and Bill Albee, the daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Albee, entertained half a hundred of their high school friends last Tuesday evening when Mr. Albee showed the young guests motion pictures of the family's travels. Following several reels of hiking through the Yukon, the Albee family was next shown in Hawaii, where they spent two years in travel. Dramatic moments of the film were of a volcano in eruption and the Albee family walking across the crater of Haleaka.

Dancing and refreshments concluded what, the boys declared, was a wow of a party.

Sheila Moore Marries

Before an improvised altar of heather, white chrysanthemums and stock in the drawing room of her ranch home in Carmel Valley, Sheila Moore, the daughter of Mrs. Sydney Fish, was married to Henry T. Rathbun of Elmira, New York, on Wednesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, rector of the Church of the Wayfarer.

Exquisite in a gown of white velvet voluminously trained, the bride wore a Juliet cap also created in velvet and embroidered in seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil was of antique lace; her bouquet, lilies of the valley.

She was attended by Mrs. Cameron Hall of San Francisco whose Adrian gown was of pale blue slipper satin, dramatically contrasted by a muff of deep red carnations.

Sheila, who was given in marriage by Mrs. Sydney Fish, is a graduate of Miss Hamlin's school in San Francisco. After three years at Sweet Brier, Virginia, she attended Mills College. As a child she attended the Douglas School in Pebble Beach.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Benjamin Rathbun of Elmira, New York. Upon graduating from Amherst College he served in the Pacific as a Lieutenant in the U. S. Navy and, following the war, attended the law school of the University of Virginia from which he graduated. His best man at the Wednesday nuptials was a cousin, William Reynolds of New York.

Mrs. Fish, mother of the bride, wore deep blue satin with a small black satin hat. Mrs. Rathbun, mother of the groom, was gowned in gray satin.

The ceremony and home reception was attended only by the two families and was followed by a large reception and supper at the Cypress Point Club where 150 guests congratulated the newly married couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Rathbun will leave today by plane for Charlotte, North Carolina, where they will make their home and Mr. Rathbun will serve under the presiding judge of the Superior Court.

Members of Mr. Rathbun's family who flew from New York for the wedding include his mother, Mrs. Benjamin Rathbun, his sister, Mrs. L. S. Antoni, and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Thompson.

Garvin's Real Estate Instruction Starts Wednesday, Jan 5

Men and women from Carmel and vicinity who desire to learn the Real Estate or Business Opportunity business, either for their own personal knowledge or to start a business of their own, will find it greatly to their advantage by enrolling in this class. The highest standards of a short course are offered which should easily qualify our students for either, or both, the State examination for a Real Estate Broker or Salesman License, or the Business Opportunity Broker or Salesman License.

The class is sponsored and taught by Mr. Garvin personally and the training will include many of the latest types of problems similar to the ones used in recent State examinations.

Mr. Garvin will also advise the students on how to get started in the real estate profession, either part or full time; about associating with established brokers, or starting for themselves, how to secure listings and make sales; going through escrow, etc.

Class will be held on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p. m., in the Woman's Club building, located on Lincoln Avenue near the corner of West Gabilan Street, Salinas, and will be conducted for six weeks.

There will be a reasonable tuition fee, which can be paid in installments.

Prospective students are invited by Mr. Garvin to attend the "Opening Session" without charge or obligation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"God" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, January 2, with the Golden Text taken from II Samuel: "As for God, his way is perfect; the word of the Lord is tried: he is a buckler to all them that trust in him. For who is God, save the Lord? and who is a rock, save our God?" (22:31, 32).

The following citations are included in the sermon:

The Bible: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all" (I Chronicles 29:11).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Not materially but spiritually we know Him as divine Mind, as Life, Truth, and Love. We shall obey and adore in proportion as we apprehend the divine nature and love Him understandingly, warring no more over the corporeality, but rejoicing in the affluence of our God" (p. 140).

Art And The Artists

By Mary-Madeleine Riddle

Want to get in on the argument? Take a look at the Father Serra now in the Gallery of the Carmel Art Association, then look more closely at the one in the bus station next time you are there. Both are by Commander Howell Armor. The three foot one in the Gallery was intended to be a duplication of the larger in the station, but as he worked Armor began to get concerned that the shorter size wouldn't give the effect of dignity Fr. Serra deserved, so he wound up making the proportions those of a six footer, with the effect of a powerful figure, expressive of the powerful spirit of the man. The hands are purposely outsize, because in his hands lay such a tremendous job. The key symbolizes opening the West to Christianity; the teeth of the key form a Spanish cross. The handle is two hearts. The costume was simplified to concentrate attention on face, hands and key. So the argument, which is most representative of Fr. Serra? Depends on your concept of the man.

The contract to redecorate the bar at the Naval School has just been let. You can relax, those magnificent murals by Paul Whitman and Armin Hansen will not be disturbed. These murals, filled with allegory, are among the outstanding in the country. Reason for redecoration is that a sure enough Naval Officers' Club will at last be set up, so they can leave the club at the air station for just air personnel. More of this later.

Henrietta Shore had a fine yule holiday in San Francisco, but came home full of thoughtful murmurs on the subject of art today. She took in the exhibit of old masters there from Berlin at the M. H. de Young Museum, and also the current show of contemporary American art at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. That there was considerable contrast would be an understatement. However, Miss Shore insists there were some really outstanding things in the modern show—just too few, unfortunately.

That general glow and collection of smiles in the vicinity of Palou street would be due to the glee of Lee Randolph's uncountable friends and students, who are all rejoicing that he continues to improve after his recent illness. All are plugging for his speedy return to work so that his contributions to the community through both his own paintings and his classes may continue the chain reaction of expressing the "real Carmel spirit."

Old time residents remember with affection the Carmelita Gallery on San Antonio just north of Ocean Avenue, where William P. Silva used to exhibit his paintings. The gallery has been closed since Silva's death last February. Now comes the welcome news that his son, William Silva, will reopen the gallery sometime in January. It will serve as both exhibit and sales place for his father's paintings. Hours will be 2 to 5 on Tuesday, Thursday or Saturday, or by appointment on phoning Silva at 1319-M. Take your visitors to see the work of one of the Carmel founders.

To name your locale in a picture's title, or not to name it; that is a question to ponder, according to Frank Moore. On the one hand, people like a picture of places they have visited. On the other hand, imagination and personal memories have a way of interpreting a scene to suit the onlooker, as illustrated by an anecdote Moore tells. He was hanging around an exhibition of his work in Pasadena last year, and noticed an army man standing transfixed for fully five minutes before a marine scene featuring a big rock. Gradually becoming uneasy, lest he had been inaccurate on water currents or something, in spite of care, Moore finally approached him and asked, tentatively, "Like it?". "I know that rock," murmured the army man without taking his eyes away. "It was on Saipan. Many's the time we used to sight our guns right along its top." A few days later, a naval officer stood in the same spot and stared a long time at the picture. When Moore spoke to him he said enthusiastically, "I know that very rock. We used to pass it regularly on the way to Bermuda!" Name it, or not? That is the question.

POP SMITH GOES TO TOWN

"Pop" Smith is back from a sally into the Big City and glad of it. His report of the adventure is as follows: "I received Christmas cards from a few people in San Francisco, whom I have not seen for years, so Monday morning I decided to go to the big city and try to visit them. I was lucky in seeing three of them. Also, I wanted to see the Old Frisco all lit up (not me.) Hadn't seen it for three years. It was a thrill to walk down Market street, rubbing elbows with hundreds of people, all sorts, sizes and nationalities. I walked past (I said past) the little places where music was issuing forth from, still the same as 40 years ago, and the tables are still running, thank goodness. The hotel I stayed in was on Market street, so the cars, street cars and buses were traveling through my room all night long. So back to dear old Carmel. Gee, but it's good to be back."

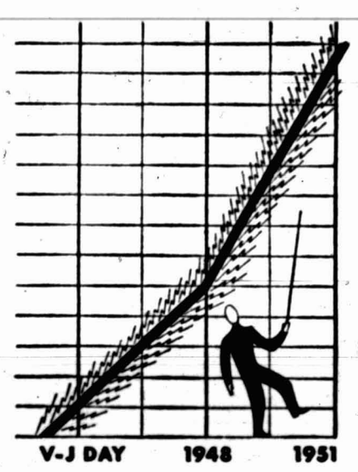
P. G. and E. adds 404,000 new electrical horsepower in 1948
and 1½ million more on the way



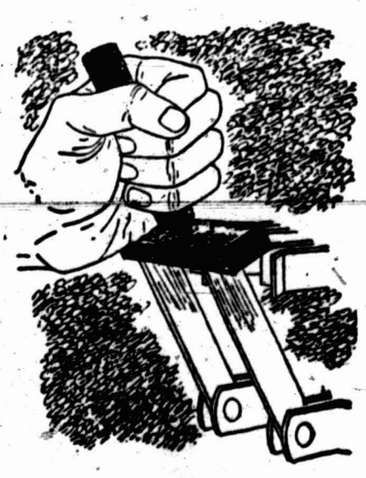
Record power growth. P. G. and E. began building new power plants immediately after V-J Day. 404,000 new horsepower were installed this year. 1½ million more will be added in the next 3 years.

$300,000,000 already invested. Most of the money for expansion comes from invested savings of thousands of people—many of them your friends and neighbors. They are the real P.G. and E. builders.

148,000 stockholders, mostly Californians, have put their savings in P.G. and E., becoming partners in one great enterprise. Few companies in the entire nation are more widely owned.

More than 7,000 jobs have been created by the expansion. This additional payroll has materially helped all sorts of business throughout the area we serve.

Still more generating plants, both steam and hydro, are being built to meet the growing demand. In 1948 alone nearly 70,000 new customers were connected to our lines!



It all adds up to the biggest power-building program in America today... going full speed ahead for the factories, farms and homes of Northern and Central California.

Work never stops on our power-building program
